Plans Formed to Drive Jordan King Off Throne

'King Hussein's Fate Sealed', Newspapers in Cairo Report

By UNITED PRESS

Moscow Radio joined Egypt and Syria today in attempts to drive King Hussein off the throne of Jordan. Cairo newspapers said "King Hussein's fate is sealed."

Willis E. Topper

Arab language broadcasts by Moscow Radio beamed to the Middle East appeared aimed at stirring up Palestinian refugees against Hussein in the campaign of assassination begun by Cairo Radio.

In Amman itself Hussein moved to bolster his shaky throne by receiving a delegation of Palestine refugees and thanking them for "their faithfulness to the throne," Jordan's state radio at Ramallah announced.

Moscow said Hussein was an "ally and a friend of the bitterest enemies of the Arab world — the USA, Britain and Turkey." It said he had plotted secretly with Israel and was an enemy of Arab unity.

New Charges by Egypt

The Egyptian press heaped new coals on the smouldering fire today with charges that only American support keeps Hussein on the throne.

The Cairo newspaper Al Shaab said the United States engineered a coup against the Jordanian people to keep Hussein on the throne and said the same power "created and is now bolstering up Israel."

The newspaper Al Ahram warned in a seven column headline: "King Hussein's Life In Danger." It quoted Damascus reports that security measures were increased around the King's palace.

The official government newspaper Al Gomhouria said Hussein used "cruel and repressive measures against the Jordanian people" and said he was "seeking the protection of the Eisenhower Doctrine and the Baghdad Pact."

Cairo's Voice of the Arabs said Monday night Hussein had betrayed the Arab neutralist front to serve "American imperialist interests in the Mideast." It said Egypt and Syria were determined to aid Hussein "until he bolted the Arab cause and took arms from the United States."

Has Support of Saud

Hussein was believed to still have the support of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and his cousin, King Feisal of neighboring Iraq, but whether those two monarchs could halt a propaganda-sparked revolt against Hussein remained to be seen.

Syria remained tense because of what it called "abnormal and unprecedented" troop movements along the Turkish-Syrian border. An official communique Monday night said "necessary precautions" had been taken following Monday's emergency cabinet meeting.

In the United Nations the United States and Syria were disclosed to have begun talks aimed at patching up their diplomatic differences and perhaps replace the ambassadors withdrawn by both nations.

Relations between the United States and Syria have been strained since last October when Syria announced discovery of an American "plot" to overthrow the Syrian regime. Since then Moscow has joined Syria in accusing the United States of urging Turkey to attack Syria.

Willis E. Topper, Judge Candidate, Dies Unexpectedly

Attorney Willis E. Topper, 51, unsuccessful Republican candidate for judge of the Westmoreland County common pleas court at last Tuesday's election, died unexpectedly last night at 9:40 o'clock in Westmoreland Memorial Hospital, Greensburg.

The cause of death was listed as "acute penetrating ulcers."

Topper became ill with influenza during the recent campaign. He left a sick bed to make several speeches prior to the election.

On Nov. 6, the day after the election, he entered the hospital for treatment.

Topper was born in Greensburg on March 3, 1906. He graduated from the University of Michigan where he won Phi Beta Kappa honors. In 1930, he earned his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania and was admitted to the practice in the same year.

During World War II, Topper served as a special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

He is a former county chairman of the Republican party and he served as solicitor for several boroughs.

A member of the First Methodist Church of Greensburg, Topper is survived by two brothers, Harry C. of Greensburg, and Fred F. of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Friends will be received at the Coshey-Buchanan Funeral Home at West Pittsburgh St., Greensburg, from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p.m. Other funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Big Stratojet Tanker Sets New Record with General at Controls

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — Gen. Curtis E. Lemay set a new jet distance record today when he flew here non stop from Westover, Mass., in a giant Stratojet tanker.

It was a dramatic demonstration of the United States intercontinental striking power.

Lemay, who helped develop the U.S. Strategic Air Force into the West's chief deterrent against Communist aggression, displayed a speedup in America's hydrogen bomb striking power. He flew the eight-jet KC135 tanker to Buenos Aires in 13 hours and two minutes.

It was a 6,300-mile non-stop flight, the longest ever made without refueling in flight. He took off from Westover at 4:48 p.m. e.s.t. Monday and landed at 5:50 a.m. e.s.t.

The presence of Lemay—second in command of the Air Force—added to the surprise show of air versatility in answer to Russia's Sputniks.

During the flight the Air Force said the big tanker hit speeds of more than 500 miles an hour and flew at an altitude of more than 35,000 feet. The KC-135 carried a crew of 19 including Lemay, Air Force vice chief of staff.

Gen. Curtis E. Lemay

The Air Force did not announce the flight publicly in advance. But some newsmen were alerted that it might be attempted.

The historic flight was originated as a highlight of Argentina's National Aviation Week.

But it also dramatically turned the world spotlight back on America's chief retaliatory weapon, its long-range Strategic Air Command, after weeks of space missile talk generated by Russia's launching of two earth satellites.

The KC-135 is designed to help the nuclear-armed B-52s get to their targets faster, anywhere in the world. The jet tanker can refuel the big bombers on the run without loss of speed or altitude.

At present they are refueled by DC-97 propeller-driven tankers which are much slower and have a top altitude of 25,000 to 30,000 feet. B-52s have to slow down, drop from their normal 50,000-foot cruising altitude, refuel and then climb back up again, consuming extra fuel.

Air Force experts said the refueling of a B-52 by the KC-135 produces a "compatible operation."

The Air Force said the plane

Second Wife Loses Out in Fight for Will

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The state Supreme Court Monday upheld an earlier decision by the Allegheny County Court which rejected the attempt of the second wife of a Pittsburgh man who married five times to be named his survivor.

Cecilia Stewart, the second wife of the late H.S.A. Stewart Jr., had contended that she should get a $116,000 trust fund his father had set aside to go to his son's wife when the son dies. The wording of the will was "his wife surviving him."

Cecilia contended her father-in-law was thinking of her in the stipulation but the ruling, written by Chief Justice Charles Jones, ordered the trust fund to go to Stewart's fifth wife, Elizabeth.

The high court ruled that Cecilia was his former wife and not his wife at the time of his death.

The elder Stewart, who died in 1922, was chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Fidelity Title and Trust Co.

Small Waste Fire At Magura Plant

Waste fabric caught fire in a storage room of the Magura Clothing Co. at Third St. and Schoonmaker Ave. about 11:30 this morning, sending dense smoke through the second floor of the structure.

Fire-fighting facilities of the company and the Monessen Fire Department combined to extinguish the fire in a matter of minutes.

Chief W. Roy McShaffrey said the cause was undetermined.

Employes left the building quickly and orderly when the fire was discovered.

Garcia Takes Early Lead In Philippine Election

MANILA (UP) — President Carlos P. Garcia and vice presidential candidate Jose Laurel Jr. ran up early leads today in first returns of the typhoon-disrupted national elections in which 6,000,000 persons voted. At least nine persons were killed in violence unrelated to the election.

Although no actual trend was expected for several hours, early returns showed this picture:

For president: Garcia, Nationalist Party, 711 votes; Jose Yulo, Liberal, 184; Claro M. Recto, Nationalist-Citizen Party, 160; Manuel Manahan, Progressive, 113; Antonio Quirino, Independent Liberal, 2.

For vice president: Laurel, Nationalist, 285; Diosdado Macapagal, Liberal, 167; Lorenzo Tanada, Nationalist-Citizen, 102; Vincente Araneta, Progressive, 30.

Military officials called the election the "quietest and smoothest" in the nation's brief history, although it was estimated unofficially that 19 persons were killed in pre-election campaign violence.

Killed in Fight

The day's most sensational incident was at Cavite, where constabulary troopers shot it out with a bandit gang. Constabulary Col. Aureano Marana and four troopers were killed. Two civilian informers and a bandit also were killed in the fight, which apparently was not related to the elections.

In another incident, a Nationalist Party leader was shot to death by a policeman in Ilocos Norte.

Typhoon Kit, which lashed the islands with winds up to 140 miles an hour, killed another man.

An estimated 8,000 constabulary troops kept order at the polls, where the number of voters was reduced by the rain and heavy winds of the typhoon.

As soon as the polls closed, Garcia mobilized all government relief organizations to aid the victims of Typhoon Kit.

Damage was estimated in the millions.

The Manila Weather Bureau said the fury of the storm had diminished slightly as it moved on Baguio, the summer capital, but

Strike Threat Could Close Missile Site

WASHINGTON (UP)—Federal mediators scheduled a meeting here today in hopes of preventing a strike against the government's Cape Canaveral, Fla., guided missile test range.

The mediators called a session this morning of representatives of Pan American World Airways and the Railway Clerks Union, which has threatened to throw pickets around the test range from where the first U.S. earth satellite is slated for launching in December.

The union has threatened to strike some time after Nov. 23. But no immediate strike is legal under terms of the Railway Labor Act which governs the dispute.

This requires that a strike be postponed for approximately 60 days after the National Mediation Board moves into a dispute. After that the President may appoint a fact-finding board which can declare the dispute a national emergency. The law then provides another cooling off period before a strike is legally possible.

The mediation board entered the PanAm dispute Friday after the railway clerks brotherhood authorized a strike that would affect most of Pan American's flight operations as well as the missile base which the airline runs under government contract.

Television Used In Mine Safety

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Television is being used as a safety device for miners digging out ore more than 1,000 feet below the surface of Red Mountain near here.

Tennessee Coal and Iron, a division of U.S. Steel and the South's biggest steel producer, announced Monday that television cameras have been used at the 1,030-foot level in its Wenonah No. 11 mine since the first of the year.

The cameras scan operations at a rotary dump yard and pass them to the minotors located 75 feet above.

In the dump yard, loaded ore cars are automatically picked up and emptied into surface-bound skip cars prior to being placed back on the tracks and sent after another load of ore.

Adlai Stevenson

Declines Chance To Help Plan NATO Program

WASHINGTON (UP) — The White House said today that Adlai E. Stevenson has declined an administration invitation to help prepare the American program to be submitted to the December NATO meeting in Paris.

But Eisenhower's unsuccessful Democratic opponent in 1952 and 1956 was willing, according to the White House, to give his views publicly on the program after it has been prepared.

"The administration plans to avail themselves of that offer of Mr. Stevenson," Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen.

Stevenson was not invited to accompany the President to Paris, nor has the White House made any overtures to former President Truman in connection with preparation of the program. Apparently Stevenson will be informed of the program after it is submitted to the NATO council meeting, and he then will make some public statement on what he thinks of it.

The American program, according to Hagerty, certainly will not be made public before it is submitted to the NATO meeting which opens Dec. 16.

Asked Free Cooperation

The summit NATO meeting was scheduled after President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a conference here called on the free nations to cooperate more strongly in scientific and technological matters to meet the Soviet missile threat.

The President meanwhile presided at a record-sized meeting of the National Security Council and a large staff of advisers.

The meeting, called specially, was held as key administration officials began to form definite plans for a new budget sufficient to meet threats to American security.

The Security Council meeting lasted an hour and a half. Present were 61 persons in addition to the President. It was held in the broadcast room of the White House because the usual meeting place, the cabinet room, was too small.

Confers With Nixon

Before the exceptionally large council meeting, the President conferred on next year's foreign aid program with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Secretary of Treasury Robert B. Anderson, and Budget Director Percival Brundage.

None of the conferees talked publicly after the meetings, and Hagerty supplied only the sketchiest details.

The President scheduled an afternoon meeting with Aneurin Bevan, foreign policy leader of the British Labor Party, who has urged a "summit" meeting of Western and Soviet leaders.

Eisenhower planned a final late afternoon meeting with Anderson and his top economic advisers, presumably to consider the impact on the national economy of possible increased military spending.

No White House discussions on next year's defense budget were expected before later in the week, after the President flies to Oklahoma City, Okla., Wednesday for

Frank Lane Is General Manager At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (UP) — Frank Lane was named as general manager of the Cleveland Indians today. He resigned as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals a few minutes before his appointment here.

The Tribe's board of directors announced its selection of Lane following a 55-minute meeting.

Lane succeeds Hank Greenberg, whose contract with the Indians was not renewed. Greenberg continues in the post until Jan. 1 and will receive an additional one year's salary after that.

Chairman William R. Daley, who announced Lane's hiring, said "Frankie Lane is the next new general manager and his term will be for three years."

Daley's statement said the board thought that Lane was "the best person qualified to lead the Indians."

Lane made a reputation during nine years with Chicago and St. Louis by negotiating trades that involved a total of 200 players. The colorful diamond figure, 61 years "young," has a reputation for rebuilding slumping ball clubs.

Lane conferred in Chicago Sunday with Vice Presidents Nate Dolin and George Medinger of the Indians. The same officials earlier had interviewed Bill DeWitt, former general manager of the defunct St. Louis Browns.

DeWitt earlier had been figured a front runner for the Greenberg post. But it was reported here earlier today he had been dropped from consideration because of his demands for a three-year contract.

McSorley Jury Selection Today

HARRISBURG (UP)—Selection of a jury begins today for the trial of suspended Turnpike Commission Chairman G. Franklin McSorley, Pittsburgh, on a charge of misconduct in office.

McSorley was suspended from his $15,000-a-year post last January by Gov. George M. Leader during an investigation by a special grand jury of virtually all phases of turnpike operations.

He was accused of supplying a chauffeur at commission expense for former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, after Evans left office.

The trial will be before Judge Homer L. Kreider.

Light Features On Three Cars State Violators

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Bureau of Highway Safety said today that three of the 1958 model automobiles contain features which violate the Pennsylvania Motor Vehicle Code and therefore cannot pass inspection without adjustments.

The bureau said the cars are the Oldsmobile "88" and "98" models and the Ford "Thunderbird." Each feature four back-up lights while the Vehicle Code restricts cars to two such lights.

John Mazur, director of the bureau's Inspection Division, said inspection stations th roughout the Commonwealth were notified of the situation. Currently, owners of those new models merely are being warned and told to correct the violations.

Mazur said mere disconnection of two of the lights would not satisfy the bureau. He said the wiring and the bulbs would have to be removed so that the operator would be unable to use the extra two lights in any way.

If one of the cars is inspected and approved, once all inspection stations receive notification, both the station and the owner will be subject to prosecution, Mazur said. He added however that "a warning was more likely."

The 55 state troopers whose chief responsibility is checking on inspection stations have been notified to emphasize the nature of the violation to stations.

Mazur said he did not know what course Oldsmobile officials would follow. But he said Ford officials are arranging to remove all wiring in two of the lights, although the fixtures will remain "for their ornamental value" for all "Thunderbirds" coming into Pennsylvania.

Conviction in 'Drag Race' Is Upheld by Court

PITTSBURGH (UP)—State Superior Court Judge J. Colvin Wright today upheld the conviction of Ronald Levin, member of a prominent Philadelphia family involved in a "drag race" automobile fatality.

Levin, 21, and Steven Robinson, 20, also of Philadelphia, were each sentenced to 18-36 months in Eastern Penitentiary as the result of the death of Frederick Klinghoffer, 26, on May 14, 1955.

In refusing Levin's appeal, Judge Wright said it was apparent he and Robinson, driver of the second car, "were participating in a race of speed."

"Such unlawful conduct constitutes reckless driving," the judge said. "Levin tried to escape responsibility on grounds that his car did not strike the victim. We are not in accord with this argument. To the contrary, we agree . . . that both drivers were fortunate in not having to face indictments for second degree murder."

Levin, whose family owns an automobile distributing firm in Philadelphia, was engaged in a race with Robinson at speeds up to 95 miles per hour.

Police said Levin swerved his car in front of Robinson's vehicle at Winfield Ave. and 47th St. Robinson's car went out of control and crashed into a tree.

Local VFW Post Cops Two Prizes At Valley Veterans Day Parade

An hour-long parade in California yesterday featured the Mon Valley's observance of Veterans Day.

More than 10,000 persons lined the streets of California to watch the annual event, which included marching and musical units and floats from the nearly all valley communities.

Monessen Veterans of Foreign Wars Allison-Lescanac Post 1190 won two parade prizes. The city organization earned $50 for the most members of a VFW post in the line of march and $25 for the best appearing veterans marching unit.

The Monessen section of the parade included the high school band, 40-uniformed VFW members, the VFW Ladies Auxiliary, the VFW jeep, caisson burial unit and ambulance unit, and the uniformed American Legion Thomas McKee Post 28.

Representing Belle Vernon in the parade were the Bellmar High School band, the uniformed American Legion Post 659, Legion jeep and caisson burial unit, uniformed Legion Auxiliary and the uniformed Legion Junior Auxiliary.

The Belle Vernon Legion Auxiliary won a $25 prize for the most members in the line of march.

The Veterans Day celebration is co-sponsored by veterans groups in six valley communities: Monessen, Belle Vernon, Charleroi, Donora, Monongahela and California.

Davie MacFann was parade marshall. The judges, Edward Dietz, Dominic Samartina and U. S. Army Reserve Major William Watkins, awarded the following prizes.

Most members in line — Catholic War Veterans of Donora; Most VFW members in line — Monessen VFW; Best high school band, Charleroi; Best junior drum and bugle corps, Company D, Boys Brigade, Donora; Best appearing veterans marching unit, Monessen VFW; Most members of American Legion Auxiliary in line — Belle Vernon; Special group prize, Brownsville Lions Club float of flag raising at Iwo Jima.

Other musical organizations, all of which will receive $15 in prize money, included high school bands from Donora, Bellmar, Monessen, Rostraver Twp., Centerville and California, the California State Teachers College band and the Brownsville Remnants.

Veterans marching units also were present from Belle Vernon, Marianna, Bentleyville, Fredericktown, Charleroi, Donora and Roscoe, and auxiliary units from Monessen, Belle Vernon, Charleroi and Donora.

In the Washington County Midget League football game early in the afternoon Marianna defeated Parkinsons, 13 to 6.

Coroners Conferring on 'Target' Shooting Case

Coroner L. C. Gray, Washington County, today told The Daily Independent he will go to Pittsburgh this afternoon to meet with Coroner William D. McClelland, Allegheny County, in an effort to arrive at some disposition in the shooting which claimed the life of a Monessen youth last week.

The victim, Thomas A. Steer Jr., 16, of 921 Summit Ave., died Thursday at Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, of a bullet wound inflicted the Sunday before when he and four juvenile companions were "target shooting" near Twilight Borough in Washington County.

Steer died in Allegheny County but the coroner's office there told The Independent yesterday it is referring the case to Washington County "since that is where the shooting happened."

Gray said today he had not yet been officially contacted by Allegheny County authorities but would go to Pittsburgh today to attempt to have the "case settled as soon as possible."

Washington County juvenile authorities had attempted to have Westmoreland County juvenile officials handle the case since all five of the juveniles are from the latter county. Westmoreland County, through Judge Edward G. Bauer, declined, saying it is a Washington County matter.

State police have refused to identify Steer's companions on the grounds that they are juveniles. Police said it is up to juvenile authorities to reveal names in such cases.

Steer and his companions were reportedly "horsing around" with .22 caliber rifles when a slug caught Steer behind the right ear and entered his brain. Police refuse to say who fired the fatal bullet.

London Dance Teacher Miffed At Princess

LONDON (UP)—A miffed dancing teacher rolled a brickbat today at Princess Margaret.

She's made rock 'n' roll the fashion, John Dilworthy complained.

"Clearly from the teachers of ballroom dancing, there can be no more bouquets for Princess Margaret," Dilworthy, secretary of the Midland Association of Teachers of Dancing, wrote in the association's magazine.

It all started, he said, when the pretty princess bade farewell to Gov. Sir Evelyn Baring in Kenya last year with: "See you later, alligator."

Up to that time rock 'n' roll was known in Britain, but "town halls frowned upon it, even public dance halls were chary of advertising it," he said.

Someone, inspired by the princess' jivey farewell, then "discovered Princess Margaret likes rock 'n' roll and approved of it." The rock started rolling in another direction.

"There was no censure," Dilworthy wrote. "Bishops and town councillors were quiet. Newspapers displayed pictures of debutantes acting like teddy girls, girls, dance halls featured rock 'n' roll nights."

Dancing teachers are now waltzing by themselves, he said, "while their erstwhile pupils seem to prefer primitive capers to a form of civilized movement like English ballroom dancing."

Dancing school profits are down 27 per cent, Dilworthy said.

Wilson Defends His Missile Leadership

DETROIT (UP)—Former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson defended his embattled leadership of U.S. missile development Monday night before business and civic leaders gathered to give him a hero's welcome home from the Washington wars.

"Whether the Russians or we are ahead in missile development, over the whole field, I do not believe anyone can say with certainty. But I do feel certain that we are only a few months apart either way and this will probably continue to be so." Wilson said.

"As I read the papers and listen to the radio and television, it seems to me that my fellow Americans are getting a bit jittery and unrealistic about the satellites and their implications in the struggle between the East and West," Wilson said.

"Neither Sputnik I nor Sputnik II is in any sense a military weapon . . . Bigger and better satellites, space ships or rockets to the moon will not, in themselves solve or even help solve the problems that the free world faces today in the effort to maintain peace and avoid a suicidal conflict between the East and West.

"It is true that the satellites launched by the Russians are a measure of their technical competence in the ballisuc missile field

"The Russians announced last summer that they had fired a multi-stage ballistic missile which had proven out their theories and demonstrated that they could produce intercontinental missiles that could be fired to anyplace on earth.

"There is no reason to doubt their ultimate ability to do this. Our scientists and engineers are convinced that we can do the same . . . We could claim that the missiles we have tested to date have proven to our satisfaction also that this can be done."

winds of 110 miles per hour were still blowing.

Election officials expected a trend to be established by tonight but said communications disrupted by the typhoon may slow vote counting for two or three days.

Garcia, 61, head of the Nacionalists Party who became president last March when President Ramon Magsaysay was killed in a plane crash, was prevented by the typhoon from voting in his home province of Bohol. He had planned to fly there but air travel was halted.

The voting was for a president, vice president, eight senators and 103 members of the house of representatives, the entire body.

No major issues were involved in the race, but vote results were expected to show how the United States prestige had stood up in the Philippines. Most candidates were pro - American, but presidential candidate Sen. Claro Recto has attacked "foreign domination."

Attacked U.S.

A big vote for Recto would indicate some dissatisfaction with the United States since he has attacked American bases in the Philippines and alleged U.S. economic domination. He was a bitter political enemy of Magsaysay.

The election campaign which began in March was the most heated in the 11-year history of the Philippine nation. Official sources listed 15 persons killed and 100 injured in campaign rioting. Unofficial reports said 19 died. Domitillo Abordo, a Nacionalista Party candidate for the House of Representatives, was hovering between life and death after being beaten by hoodlums.

A qualified administration official told the United Press today he does not expect any "sharp" increase in the new defense budget from the 38 billion dollars that has been the Pentagon's "planning figure" since before Sputnik.

The Democratic-controlled Congress came under sharp attack for the cuts today from Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn. In a speech prepared for Republican workers in Oakland, Calif., Alcorn said Congress "slashed" $2,500,000,000 from Eisenhower's defense request.

Retired Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson also said Monday night in Detroit he thought the nation was "getting too complacent" when Congress cut the defense appropriation last summer.

In other major U.S. missile-satellite developments:

—Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO Commander, said he had submitted a strategic outline for the next five years on the assumption Russia could launch not only an earth satellite but "a vehicle able to gather and transmit military information." Norstad said the West's air - atomic power and worldwide military bases will hold the military balance of power "for some years to come."

—The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee moved to speed hearings on the U.S place in the space missile race

An administration source told the United Press that Stevenson was contacted at about the time of the recent conference of President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The two leaders agreed to seek closer military - scientific cooperation among NATO and other free world powers.

Western Powers To Block North Korean Voice

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The western powers prepared today to block any attempt by the Communist bloc to give the Red North Korean regime a voice in the United Nations debate on Korea.

The Communist attempt was expected at the opening of annual debate by the U.N. General Assembly's main political committee on the unification of Korea this morning.

Behind the scenes, the United States continued consultations with its allies on an Indian plan to expand the U.N. Disarmament Commission and end the threat of a Soviet boycott of future arms talks.

The Indian plan would add seven members to the Disarmament Commission, currently made up of the 11-nation Security Council. It was designed to thwart the Soviet "ultimatum" that it would not participate in future talks of the commission or its subcommittee "in their present composition."

In the face of the "threat," the United States with the concurrence of Britain, France and Canada, last week privately rejected the Indian proposal.

However, after a week's "cooling off" period, the arms question is scheduled to come before the General Assembly for final action on Thursday and a modified Indian plan is scheduled to be introduced

Admits Hit-run Slaying Monday

PITTSBURGH (UP)—James B. Remas, 39, McKeesport, was charged with manslaughter Monday in the hit-run death of a White Oak bartender.

Remas, who surrendered to county detectives, told police he thought his automobile may have struck and killed George Wetzler 55, last Saturday. He was released under $10,000 bond, pending a coroner's inquest.

According to detectives, Remas said he struck what he thought was a depression in the road.

The county's crime laboratory was investigating to determine if broken glass found near the victim's body matched the headlight lens on Remas' car.

Authority on Space Thinks Manned Flights Due Within Three Years

(Dr. Arthur M. Kantrowitz, an internationally recognized authority on space flight, believes that within three years it will be possible to send a man into space and bring him safely back to earth. Dr. Kantrowitz, a visiting professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, had a major role in the development of our intercontinental ballistic missile. Here he describes the problems that must be solved to attain man's space flight.)

By DR. ARTHUR R. KANTROWITZ

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — What has to be done before we can achieve manned space flight? The first problem is the launching. The launching of a vehicle large enough to carry a man obviously requires very powerful rockets and requires that these rockets be well guided. Thus, our ability to launch a manned satellite into orbit is closely related to our ICBM capabilities.

We have been and will continue to devote great effort to achieving ICBM capabilities soon. The country is thus heavily committed to the development of large, reliable rockets with accurate guidance systems. It will therefore be interesting to delineate the other problems which must be solved before manned space flight can be achieved.

The first group of problems are the physiological ones which have been under investigation by the Air Force and Navy aero-medical services. There are the accelerations which man must experience in launching which may be as much as ten times gravity (10 G's). There is a good deal of experience to indicate that a man suitably positioned can take this.

Will Be Weightless

When he is out in space he will be weightless. This condition is one which unfortunately cannot be duplicated on earth for more than a short time. Authorities on this subject do not believe that this will be an insurmountable problem.

There are unusual radiations to be met in space (primary cosmic rays, solar X rays, etc.) from which we are ordinarily protected by our atmosphere. The evidence is, however, that a very thin metal skin will protect a man against these radiations other than cosmic rays. The consensus of professionals is that cosmic radiation hazard will probably not be a severe risk for a space flight of a few days. Studies are being made of these radiation effects upon animals carried aloft in capsules to high altitudes by balloons.

The problems connected with food, water, oxygen supply and waste disposal do not seem particularly difficult. There is a weight allowance required on the order of 10 pounds a day for supporting a man in these three requirements. Lightweight and simple air conditioning and communications equipment, power supply and other necessities are within the present art. Thus flights of a few days duration would not involve any great supply weights.

Possible Meteoritic Impacts

Next, there is the well known possibility of meteoritic impacts and there seems to be a considerable likelihood that impacts by microscopic meteorites will have to be expected. Protection against these can again be achieved with a thin outer skin. It is known that impacts with large meteorites are a rare phenomenon. This is a risk which will have to be taken; however, it is known that many meteorites have existed in space for a period on the order of billions of years without being eroded away by impacts with other meteorites.

The problem of decelerating a man out of a satellite orbit and returning him safely to earth is probably the most difficult part of manned space flight apart from those elements related directly to the ICBM program (launching and guidance). The difficulty of this problem can be illustrated by considering the tremendous kinetic energy of a satellite. If this energy were transformed into heat, the heat generated would be many times that necessary to vaporize a satellite made of any known material—if all the heat flowed into the satellite. It is, however, well known that some meteorites do decelerate and reach the earth's surface. During the re-entry process, some of their outer skin is lost through evaporation and erosion. Since larger meteorites survive (and they all have much higher kinetic energies than the contemplated man-made satellites), it is clear that a large portion of the heat which is generated flows away from the meteorite through the processes of radiation and conduction into the surrounding air rather than flowing into the meteorite.

Matter For Decision

A great deal of study of this problem, well known as the "re-entry problem", has recently been made in connection with the ICBM program. In particular, at the AVCO Research Laboratory (working under Air Force sponsorship) techniques have been developed for the reproduction and study of flow about objects re-entering the atmosphere at up to satellite speeds.

It appears that at the present time no great scientific discoveries are needed to achieve manned space flight. It thus becomes a matter for decision. Is America willing to pay for it?

It is not yet clear how or whether manned space flight will be important in a military sense Historical perspective in this respect can be useful to supplement the deficiencies in our imagination. Some of the revolutionary weapons of this century were the airplane, radar, nuclear energy. In all of these cases the initial developments were undertaken with non-military objectives in mind. The airplane was once just a challenge similar to that of the present day challenge of space flight. Radar was once just a powerful way of studying the ionosphere. The obvious applications of nuclear energy were not to bombs but to the generation of power.

It is my opinion that America cannot afford to gamble that this pattern will not be repeated in space flight.

had aboard some extraordinary communications equipment enabling it to radio its position "clear as crystal" thousands of miles from its base.

The piloting of the tanker by the 50-year-old Lemay, who as vice chief of staff is the Air Force's number two in command, added weight to the large U.S. display at the Argentine Air Week exhibit.

The Air Force put on display in Buenos Aires its X-17 missile which helped solve the atmosphere reentry problem, its Bomarc Interceptor missile and a variety of jet planes including a crack aerobatic team flying F-100s.

Lemay during nine years as head of SAC led the fight to convert the nation's chief striking force to jet aircraft. He became vice chief of staff last July and has been mentioned as a possible candidate for Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the Armed Forces.

Rogers to Fight For Civil Rights, Department Says

WASHINGTON (UP) — William P. Rogers, the new attorney general, will champion civil rights as staunchly as his predecessor, Justice Department sources said today.

But diplomatic Rogers is not as likely to rouse Southern anger as was his predecessor Herbert Brownell Jr.

Arkansas Gov. Orval E Faubus said Monday the change in the top justice office will mean a return to "understanding, patience and tolerance" in the government's attitude toward segregation problems.

Justice Department sources pointed out Rogers sat in on all the big policy-making meetings during the Little Rock integration crisis.

They said there was never any friction on this score between Rogers, then deputy attorney general, and his boss Brownell.

But the sources said pro-segregationists are going to find it more difficult to cast Rogers in the role of villain than they did Brownell.

More flexible, more ready to compromise, Rogers uses the technique of friendly persuasion with Congress. Popular on Capitol Hill, he has seldom rubbed the lawmakers the wrong way.

Wheeling Steel Official Changes Demand Viewpoint

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—William A. Steele, executive vice president of Wheeling Steel Corp., said today the outlook for steel demand has forced the firm to make "some tempering of earlier expressions of optimism" on prospects for the fourth quarter of 1957.

"Along with other companies in the industry, there was some drop in Wheeling Steel's operating rate during the third quarter, but presently we are producing steel at a rate slightly above 80 per cent of capacity," Steele said.

"This situation has eliminated the necessity for overtime work in most operating units and has required, in some instances, a temporary let-up in the number of men scheduled for work.

"Despite these conditions, we have been able thus far to keep nearly 95 per cent of our employes on the job."

Five Men Promoted at Pittsburgh Steel Plants

Four Elevated At Monessen; One at Allenport

Pittsburgh Steel Co. today announced the promotion of four district men at its Monessen plant and one at its Allenport works.

At Monessen, Charles A. Kuhl was moved up from specification metallurgist to steel metallurgist. Kuhl lives at RD 1, West Brownsville.

Open Hearth Observer John C. Thompson was promoted to specification metallurgist. Thompson lives at 624 Oneida St. Monessen.

In the Open Hearth Department, William J. Williams and Lewis C. Kyle took over new foreman duties. Williams was promoted to stock yard foreman from third helper and Kyle stepped up to open hearth foreman from stock foreman.

Live in Monessen

Both Williams and Kyle are residents of Monessen. Williams lives at 112 Linden Ave.; Kyle at 618 McKee Ave.

At the Allenport works, Frank A. Brinegar of 818 Jane Ave., Speers Hill, was named turn foreman on No. Three Hot Mill. Before his promotion, Brinegar was sizing mill operator on No. Three Hot Mill.

A native of Belle Vernon, Kuhl joined Pittsburgh Steel Co. 17 years ago as a metallurgical trainee. He and his wife, Nancy, have two daughters, Nancy Louise and Barbara Jean, and one son, Dwight.

When Thompson joined the company 22 years ago, his first job was tag maker in the bundling room at Monessen works. A native of Monessen, Thompson and his wife, Louise, have two children, daughter Darlene and son Chalmer.

Williams' first job with Pittsburgh Steel in 1936 was laborer. Born in Webster, Williams lives with his wife, Frances, in Monessen.

A native of Johnstown, Kyle entered Pittsburgh Steel's employment 40 years ago as a craneman. He and his wife, Frieda, have three sons, Carmen, Ralph and Ronald, and eight grandchildren.

Brinegar at the Allenport Works was born in Henry, W. Va. When he joined Pittsburgh Steel Co. in 1928, he took a laborer's job on No. Four Hot Mill at Allenport.

Brinegar and his wife, Blanche, have one son, Larry, and two daughters, Joan and Diane.

Charleroi Man In Perfect Grid Contest Entry

A Charleroi reader has won the distinction of turning in the first perfect entry blank of the season in The Daily Independent football contest.

Jack Kapechek, 210 Prospect Ave., Charleroi, picked all 12 games correctly in last week's contest to win first prize money.

Kapechek came pretty close to guessing the highest score of the week, too. He selected 33 while the correct total was 39.

Two Monessen forecasters shared second and third place money, both picking 11 of 12 games accurately. They were Dick Schrading, 921 Athalia Ave., and Harry K. Crawley, 514 Tenth St.

Schrading chose 38 as the highest score, while Crawley picked 40. Since both were a point off, they remained tied under contest rules for the runner-up spot.

Schrading miscued in his section of San Francisco over Los Angeles, while Crawley muffed on the Pittsburgh Steelers against Cleveland.

One entry last week came from as far away as Troy, N. Y. It was submitted by Jane Pinkerton, of 285 Pawling Ave.

Utility Pole Is Struck in One Of Two Crashes

A utility pole was struck in one of two motor accidents in Monessen yesterday and today, police reported.

Guy Lang, 468 Donner Ave., told police he was traveling near Sixth St. and Schoonmaker Ave. when he fell asleep and his car crashed into a utility pole, causing considerable damage to the car's front end.

In the other accident, the drivers involved were Steve Poposky, 1440 Meadow Ave., and Carl Berkovitz, 420 Motheral Ave., both of Monessen. The cars were traveling on Grand Blvd. near Watkins Ave. yesterday afternoon about 3:20 when they collided.

Berkovitz, operating on a learner's permit, was accompanied by a licensed driver, Mike Berthine, 224 East Donner Ave., Monessen. Damage was slight.

Why Do Soviets Lag In Food Production?

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UP) — If the Russians are smart enough to beat us into space, why do they lag so far behind the United States in food production?

Why does a nation with the technical ability to launch earth satellites give its citizens only one pound of meat for every three or four turned out by U.S. farmers?

"If you're asking that question, broaden it," said an Agriculture Department spokesman. When the state concentrates its power on a problem, the men who develop Sputnik and Muttnik "do all right," the expert added.

Plagued By Shortages

But in food production, the Soviet Union has been plagued by shortages for years, according to most U. S. students of Soviet affairs.

The Agriculture Department specialist said recent claims that Soviet farmers will equal U.S. per capita production of several major foods in a few years are "unrealistic ... propaganda."

The Soviet farmer lags behind his American counterpart and probably won't catch up soon, in this expert's view, because:

—Food production and the manufacture of consumer goods still take a back seat to heavy industry and military science in Soviet planning.

—Agricultural science in Russia suffered for many years from political interference at the hands of Stalin and Prof. Trofim Lysenko, a Stalin favorite.

—Soviet agriculture still suffers from a wasteful use of labor. On most collective farms, three to five workers are needed to do the job one farm laborer would do in the United States.

—Major Soviet farming areas are far to the north of U.S. farm production centers. The collective farmer in general must work with a shorter growing season and with frequent dry spells across wide areas.

Hide Food Failure

Gwynn Garnett, administrator of the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service, noted in a recent speech that the Soviets are celebrating the 40th anniversary of the Communist revolution.

"The big story of this anniversary — one that the Communists themselves try to hide—is the failure of Communism to provide for the food and agricultural needs of its people," Garnett said.

The U.S. lead is more than three to one over Russia to meat production and about 40 per cent in per capita milk production. Soviet farmers, under orders from Moscow, have expanded production of animal feed grains sharply in recent years only to find their crops disappointing.

Karen Duda Is Nominated to Forensic Congress

Karen Duda, Monessen High School junior, last Saturday was nominated to represent the district National Forensic League Student Congress at the National Congress to be held next June in South Dakota.

Miss Duda received the honor at a Student Congress held at Immaculate Conception High School, Connellsville. Over 150 students attended.

At the assembly, Miss Duda was awarded a bronze pin in a speaking contest.

Others attending from Monessen were Richard Behrendt, Florine Komatz, Henry Andrikovich, Claire Hoffman, Rochelle Weiss and Jean Buchar.

They were accompanied by Carolyn Sedey, local NFL director.

Torquato to Speak To Union Members

The day will begin with a mass offered by the pastor, teachers, parents, pupils and benefactors of the school.

Throughout the day, parents and guests have been invited to tour the classrooms. Parent-teacher conferences will be made by appointment.

The Holy Name school, which includes grades 1 through 8, is staffed by Vincentian Sisters of Charity.

Leader to Name Fayette Judge

A vacancy on the Fayette County common pleas bench created by the recent death of Judge S. John Morrow is expected to be filled soon by Gov. George M. Leader.

Four county attorneys are being mentioned for the appointment to the bench. According to political observers, Edward Dumbauld has the "inside track." He is the son of the late Judge H. S. Bumbauld.

The other possibilities are District Attorney Joseph E. Kovach, County Solicitor John R. Hoye and Attorney Anthony Cavalcante, it was reported.

Two Murder Cases In Washington Court

Two murder cases will go before Washington County court this week.

The selection of a jury is expected to start today or tomorrow for the trial of Orville Kittle of California. Kittle is accused of slaying his nephew, George Wayne Lasko, in a scuffle over a gun on Route 88 near California.

Judge George T. Cummins, who is in charge of this term of court, said that the Kittle trial will be handled by visiting Judge J. Ingram Hook, Greene County, who will replace ailing Judge Roy I. Carson.

A second murder trial involving three youthful defendants from the Canonsburg area is scheduled to begin later in the week before Judge David Weiner. In this trial, James Alford, George Pollard and Ronald Burgess will be charged with the murder of aged Austin Wallace of McDonald last spring during an alleged robbery attempt.

The cases will not be started simultaneously, according to Judge Cummins. All jurors will be selected for the Kittle trial before a similar selection begins in the other murder case.

No civil cases will be tried during the first two weeks of the six-week November term of court.

The full two weeks will be devoted to criminal cases.

District Attorney Michael A. Hanna has prepared a list of 48 separate cases for the two weeks although in many cases the same defendant is charged with a number of crimes which can be tried at the same time.

Firemen Will Meet Saturday

The Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association will meet in Butler on Saturday at 8 p.m.

Hosts for the meeting will be the South Butler Twp. Vol. Fire Company, in their fire station at 133 Graham Ter.

Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams will deliver the principal address at the 37th annual Charleroi Chamber of Commerce banquet tomorrow night at Twin Coaches on Route 51. Mennen is being mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential candidate.

Alex Zelenski, Chamber president, and Leo Guttman, banquet general chairman, today said that a record crowd of over 800 persons is expected to attend.

Toastmaster will be Rege Cordic, Pittsburgh radio personality.

Following the speaking program and introduction of guests, a floor show featuring Liberace will be presented.

The affair is open to the general public. Some of the remaining tickets can be purchased at the door, Guttman stated.

Business Leaders At Dinner for NYC President

Business and industrial leaders of the Pittsburgh area were guests of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad at a dinner in the Duquesne Club, Pittsburgh, last night honoring President Alfred E. Perlman of the New York Central System, parent company of P&LE.

Perlman and other top officials are on a system-wide inspection tour of New York Central lines and facilities. They completed their survey in the Pittsburgh area yesterday.

President John W. Barriger of P&LE acted as host at the dinner and introduced Perlman.

The New York Central head spoke informally of the railroad's huge improvement program which this year alone has involved expenditures of well over a quarter-billion dollars for new equipment and facilities.

Perlman made no mention of recent proposals for a merger of New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroad.

He was scheduled to speak again in Pittsburgh today at a luncheon given by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce in honor of Perlman and the presidents or vice presidents of 10 other railroads.

Editorials—

P&LE's Attitude

THE LETTER from John W. Barriger, president of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, which is printed in the Peoples Forum today, requires comment here.

It was not the purpose of our editorial of Oct. 30 to "express feeling" against the P&LE. There is a long record of cordiality, official and otherwise, between Monessen and its principal railroad, and we feel justified in saying that The Daily Independent has made some contribution to this record. It will continue to do so.

Nor was it our purpose to argue for any of the details of the ideas of the Planning Commission as they would affect the P&LE. These ideas are still tentative, and Mr. Barriger and his company are certainly entitled to assert opinions about them.

However, Mr. Barriger's letter of Oct. 18 to the Planning Commission gave us the distinct impression that the P&LE's views concerning these plans do not give proper weight to the overall good of the community. They seem colored too much by the special concerns of the P&LE.

The point of our editorial was that in the planning of a better Monessen, such special concerns will often have to give way to overall considerations. And we expressed the hope that all who have a stake in a better, brighter community will try to take the long, broad view. Only in this way, we feel, can the final result meet the test of the greatest good to the greatest number.

We are glad to have Mr. Barriger's assurance that the attitudes which governed P&LE's participation in the early development of Monessen no longer prevail. And we believe he will find our city officials, as well as this newspaper, receptive to his ideas and anxious to resolve possible conflicts without injury to P&LE or any other private interest.

We have to insist, however, that the only kind of planning which will have a chance of serving the community adequately must subjugate private interests to the common good. Otherwise, we had all better save our energies and the peoples' money and let our city go quietly to sleep.

More Democracy

THE NATIONAL officers of the United Steelworkers union are concerned by the failure of so many members to attend meetings of local unions and otherwise to participate actively in union affairs.

To help overcome this seeming indifference the USW is sponsoring a series of television broadcasts dealing with various union problems. The first of these was given last Sunday and was devoted to the unemployment at Donora created by the permanent suspension of the zinc works of U.S. Steel Corp.

This concern on the part of the USW leadership undoubtedly is justified. The investigation of the Senate committee has already made clear that one of the root causes of the corruption and other abuses which have been disclosed in a few unions is this neglect by rank-and-file members. So long as the paid officers have produced wage increases and other benefits, too many union members have not bothered to be sure that the union administration itself was clean and lawful and that their leaders were decent people.

The USW television programs strike us as an intelligent device to stimulate rank-and-file interest. It will not, of course, be a substitute for well-attended meetings of local unions, but it will be one means of improving communications between the professional leaders and the dues-paying membership and between the USW as a whole and the general public.

In preparing the programs, some care ought to be taken to avoid self-glorification by the current officers. Some of this seemed to be present in the Donora program.

But the main objective of all unions should be a high degree of grass roots democracy. This is the best assurance, not just the honest operation, but of really effective representation of the members' interests.

Ike's Health Check

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has undergone another complete health check at Walter Reed Hospital and the President himself summarizes the reports by saying just that he is "fine".

The nation naturally attaches more than routine importance to these routine checks in Mr. Eisenhower's case. He has had a couple of health reverses that gave the country grave concern.

We hope the President is doing everything he is told by his medical advisers to do by way of keeping fit, including all the golf he can manage. To have him feeling "fine" in the months ahead may be more important than it has ever been.

Merry-Go-Round—

Hagerty to Leave White House Soon

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside the White House — Ike's having staff troubles, as well as Sputnik troubles. Jim Hagerty, the most skilled balancer of press retort and comment ever seen around the White House, is leaving. . . This comes on top of the departure of Bernard Shanley, one of the best men around Ike, to run for the Senate from New Jersey. . . . New White House science staff member, James Killian, is the man who talked with Dr. A. D. Alexandrov in London about coming to the USA. Alexandrov is probably the world's top mathematical physicist, has pioneered Russian moves to reach the moon. We could learn much more from him than he from us, but the State Department got his request for a visit lost in red tape. . . . It was Arthur Larson, new chief of physiological warfare, recently kicked upstairs from the U. S. Information Agency, who persuaded Ike to speed up his TV speech to Nov. 7. Larson figured the Soviets might launch sensational news on Nov. 7, their 40th anniversary, and that Ike should be ready to reassure the nation. The Russians, however, didn't.

Mr. Pearson

Backstage with Nixon — Vice President Nixon pleaded with Eisenhower before his satellite-missile speech to make it tougher. Nixon urged him to pull out all the stops, admit there was a national emergency, and prepare the public for a long, desperate struggle with Russia for scientific supremacy. . . . Nixon even got out of bed with the flu to study the missile emergency, asked Eisenhower to call upon the nation to sacrifice a few luxuries and mobilize its resources to catch up with Russia . . . . However, assistant president Sherman Adams wanted Ike to reassure the nation there was no cause for alarm. Ike took the usual middle ground.

Inside the Kremlin — The American Embassy reports that Khrushchev deliberately launched the super-Sputnik ahead of schedule in order to divert public attention from Marshal Zhukov. The dog-carrying Sputnik had been scheduled to be fired four days later, to commemorate the Bolshevik revolution, but Khrushchev was worried that his purge of Zhukov might react badly. So Sputnik II was fired ahead of time. That's why the gala Moscow celebration on Nov. 7 lacked a big firecracker. . . U. S. experts in Moscow predict Communist boss Khrushchev will follow his Kremlin shakeup with a thorough purge of both the Red Army and the Soviet Government. Many key posts are still held by supporters of the ousted Kremlin leaders. Khrushchev must get rid of them before he can consolidate his dictatorship. . . . Moscow is buzzing with rumors that Zhukov had plotted to overthrow Khrushchev with a military dictatorship, and it's suspected Khrushchev himself may be spreading the rumors in order to prepare the public for a wholesale purge. . . . U. S. Intelligence has picked up a report that Marshal Zhukov's dismissal was precipitated by a heated argument with Khrushchev. Khrushchev had tried to assert his authority over the Defense Ministry, and Zhukov angrily told him that military affairs were none of his business. Zhukov is quoted as saying he wouldn't tell Khrushchev how to grow corn, therefore didn't expect Khrushchev to tell him how to run the Red Army. It was this angry incident, U. S. agents report, that finally persuaded Khrushchev to oust the popular military hero.

Atomic Hassle — Prime Minister Macmillan has sent President Eisenhower a detailed British analysis, warning that only a dramatic American success in the satellite-missile field can overtake Russia's psychological advance among neutral nations. No moderate, middle-of-the-road moves, he says, will do it. . . . President Eisenhower is studying a plan to divide with Britain the responsibility for building atomic missiles. Under the plan, the United States would concentrate on intercontinental missiles and hydrogen warheads. Britain would take the responsibility for shorter-range missiles and smaller atomic warheads. However, Atomic Energy Chairman Lewis Strauss is privately opposing the plan to share atomic secrets. . . . Strauss, who used to be a Kuhn-Loeb partner and drove Dr. Robert Oppenheimer out of government, warned that American atomic secrets would be jeopardized if they are made available to foreign scientists. He claimed the United States still has nuclear secrets Russia would like to get. . . . Macmillan's idea of a crash program just doesn't register with cautious investment banker Strauss.

The Maiden's Prayer

From Washington—

Can We Afford Second Place?

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Really, how serious is it for the United States to have the Soviet Union jump into a visible lead in scientific weapons, particularly in missiles?

Is this just uncomfortable but still something we can live with, or is it so dangerous to freedom — even to survival — that we can't afford to rest until this gap is closed?

Mr. Drummond

These seem to me the necessary questions. The answers we give to them will determine whether the President and Congress are going to receive adequate public support for whatever needs to be done.

The best answers to these questions which I can find and on which I believe there is little dissent among those close to the facts are:

That unless the United States acts promptly to overcome the Soviet missile lead, an ominous shift in the whole world balance of power will be in the making.

That any significant and visible shift in the balance of power, such as would come about by the Russian possession of a superior missile striking force, would ultimately lead to one thing: A cold-war "Munich" — the defection of the uncommitted nations, the dismemberment of NATO and the isolation of America on the North American continent.

Now, I do not wish to leave the impression that because the Soviets have gone ahead of us in a phase of missile development, the United States has suddenly become a weak and impotent power.

That is simply not true. By ourselves along and with our NATO allies, whose air bases ring much of the Soviet Union, we possess the military capability of crippling destruction. War can be made very uninviting to the Kremlin and the Soviet leaders know it. The deterrent of mutual terror still prevails.

But the prime danger in letting the Russians hold a lead in missles is not that this would make war either safe or inviting for the Soviets. It wouldn't. The prime danger is that our willingness to permit the Kremlin to develop a superior missile striking power, plus the evident edge this would give the Soviets because of vast ground strength, would induce much of the world to believe that we had neither the will nor the means to resist.

Must Check Shift

Such a shift in the balance of power would be absolutely devastating to the free world. It would almost automatically concede the cold war to Moscow.

Such a shift in the balance of power must at all costs be checked and redressed.

What are we going to do? What do we need to do?

I think the answer is fairly simple. The basic decision is not how the government should organize the missile program. It is not whether we should put the launching of Vanguard into outer space ahead of missile development.

The basic decision is whether as a people and as a nation, we believe it vital and therefore intend to do whatever is needed to overtake the Soviets in scientific weapons.

If that is the national will, we'll do it. If it isn't, we won't.

Baruch's Warning

I like Bernard M. Baruch's to-the-heart-of-the-matter warning. With every knowledgeable economist, he knows that the American economy can stand the strain of matching the Soviet challenge, and adds:

"If America ever crashes, it will be in a two-tone convertible . . .There are worse burdens than taxes. . Sputnik represents the test of democracy. Do we meet this challenge. . .regain our leadership, assure our security? Do we discipline ourselves to protect our freedom? If we do not, we will bear the far harsher disciplines which our enemies will impose upon us."

If the President and the Congress see that the American people are fully determined to meet the peril which confronts us, it is well within our capacity to do it.

There are some who believe that an industrial mobilization on a semi-war footing, with far-reaching economic controls is necessary to do the job. My instinct is to feel that this is not needed if we put defense ahead of economy-for-its-own-sake and survival ahead of tax reduction. But if we delay, than later in desperation we will find total economic mobilization to be inevitable.

The Lighter Side—

Bar Singers, Beware

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—"There is a tavern in the town—and there my true love sits him down—and drinks his wine as merry as can be..."

But if he breaks into song, tsk tsk, the joint may have to pay federal cabaret tax—even if he is just a customer and is singing such a customer-type melody as the old-timer quoted above.

There are so many alarming items abroad nowadays that this one—a shocker to all us golden voiced tavern singers—has been generally ignored. And yet, here it is, as quoted from the middle of a long tax roundup in the Wall Street Journal:

Songfests Taxable

"Impromptu songfests of tavern customers may constitute entertainment for purposes of federal cabaret tax enforcement, in the view of the Philadelphia Internal Revenue District."

The item added that the tax sleuths there desire to collect the 20 per cent excise tax from small neighborhood bars, many of which feature soloists who are patrons.

As a man with an uncontrollable talent for bellowing, and a voice loud enough to be heard from here to Schenectady, your correspondent herewith enters a vigorous protest against being shushed from mellow song in the fear that the place will be taxed as a cabaret.

Closed, maybe, for noisily laying waste to the quiet of the night—that I can see happening. But being taxed for furnishing entertainment? Any tax sleuth who contends that the usual impromptu songfest at the usual saloon is entertainment for anybody but the singers has no respect for the meaning of words.

Usually Empties Joint

Usually the impromptu vocalizing has the effect of emptying the joint of all other customers, of causing windows to slam and dogs to howl for blocks around.

It is recorded that Nikita S. Khrushchev, in response to a compelling lyric urge from within, rendered a solo at a Moscow party one night last week. None of the dispatches of the culture-heavy correspondents present at the party described the head man's impromptu effort as entertainment.

As of the moment of going to press, Khrushy is still in office. But if he will listen to a word of advice from the voice of experience—desist from such singing, old man, if you want to stay where you are; if you keep on, there is no other way but down. People will stand only so much suffering before they rebel.

P&LE President States Views on City Plans

To the Editor:

"The Right Attitude for City Planning", your Oct. 30 editorial, exhibits such feeling against the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad that I reread my letter to the Planning Commission to make certain that I had given no one occasion to take personal affront.

As you know, the official family of the P&LE met with a group of Monessen officials at the invitation of the Planning Commission on Sept. 4 to hear an explanation of the new city plan. They were assured then, and we wish to assure you now, of our intention to cooperate. We heartily concur in your efforts to plan for the orderly redevelopment of Monessen. At the meeting, it was not possible to study details of plan and an additional meeting between Monessen officials, their planning consultants and one of our officials was arranged for that purpose.

A public hearing on the proposed zoning ordinance was held on Sept. 25. Since we had no notice of the hearing, none of our officials attended. Our information concerning it has been derived from The Daily Independent of Sept. 26, which stated in part:

"He (William H. Pore, vice chairman, Monessen Planning Commission) told those present that the committee is open to suggestions and criticism before preparing the final draft of the ordinance which will then be submitted to the City Council for action. He said that all criticism must be submitted in writing."

Experience in Planning

Since the best redevelopment plan for Monessen is, obviously, that which is best for the majority of its citizens, we heartily approved of this method of obtaining an orderly statement of public opinion. Without this, the Planning Commission would have no means of finding whether any plan, excellent though it might appear on paper, would actually correspond with the hopes and aspirations of the citizens. We concurred with the Commission's evident belief that planning, like war, is "too important to be left to the experts."

Because railroads pass through many cities, they have had much experience with city planning, particularly with the phases that affect future economic development. This experience has enabled railroads to formulate certain fundamentals inherent in all good city planning. Among these are:

1. Streets and public works should be located to encourage rather than to block the expansion of presently established industries;

2. Streets should be located at sufficient distance from railroads to encourage the economic development of the intervening land served by both. Streets should not be located adjacent to railroads because this forecloses the possibility of attracting industries requiring both, and, in fact, eliminates half the economic utility of both the street and the railroad throughout the distance for which they are adjacent;

Spread Tax Burden

3. New industrial development should be encouraged within city limits in order to spread the tax burden of maintaining a pleasant, attractive city;

4. New industrial zones should be located within the established limits of water, sewage, gas, and other municipal facilities, including police and fire protection, in order to make sites as attractive as possible to new establishments considering the area.

I believe these considerations represent a modern, progressive point of view. In fact, they are an essential part of the right attitude for city planning. My letter of Oct. 18, submitted at the invitation of the Planning Commission, adheres strictly to these sound principles. I trust my views will be considered on their merits and that discussion of them will not be foreclosed by impugning our motives and referring to events of sixty years ago.

Monessen is entitled to a sound, forward - looking development plan. The P&LE will not stand in the way of such a plan. Surely you cannot regard the voicing of a somewhat different point of view with respect to plan details as being obstructive or non cooperative. It is, on the contrary, an act of good citizenship to state an honest conviction and to invite public discussion free from recrimination.

John W. Barriger
President, P&LE RR

National Affairs—

Nelson Rockefeller Is Prospect for Governor

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, (UP — Nelson A. Rockefeller, grandson of the original John D., is being touted as next year's Republican candidate for governor of New York.

New York's governorship is a position which sometimes leads toward the White House. State governors more often than senators or congressmen are promoted along that path.

Mr. Wilson

Rockefeller's wealth would not become a campaign issue against him if he were nominated. His opponent would be Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman who also is loaded.

Franklin D. Roosevelt disposed of the notion that a plush background is a political handicap, although the Roosevelts were more notable for blood lines than for great wealth.

Rockefeller's name comes up in talk of 1958 in company with speculation that professional Republican politicians may not be too anxious for the New York gubernatorial nomination. Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner's lop sided re election in New York City last week darkly clouded next year's Republican outlook in the state.

GOP Showing Poor

The Republican Party in New York City was short of even a respectable showing in the mayoralty contest. A leftwing splinter group called the Liberal Party rolled up 219,000 votes for Wagner. The Republican Party polled only 587,000. The Democratic vote for Wagner was more than 1,280,000.

Some familiar political symbols were missing from last week's ballot in New York City. Gone was the Communist sparked American Labor Party (ALP). It lost its place on the ballot last year when it failed to poll 50,000 votes for its gubernatorial candidate. Missing, too, were the Socialists.

The Socialist Party in the United States was unable to recover from the drain on its voting power effected by FDR's creation of the New Deal - Democratic coalition.

A spot check in eastern industrial areas in 1935-36 revealed mass desertions from the Socialist Party to the Roosevelt powerhouse. In 1936, an organized Socialist group split from the Socialist Party to support FDR's first re-election. The Socialist vote has continued to dwindle since.

A Labor Party

The left wing element of New York City politics now is concentrated substantially in the splinter Liberal Party (LP) which properly could be called a labor party.

LP was born of the American Labor Party in a struggle to prevent Communist domination of ALP. The Communists took over ALP, however, and the Liberals took a walk to their present position of close alliance but sometimes uncertain partnership with the Democrats. LP is in a balance of power position in any close contest and, therefore, has a forceful word to say about Democratic candidates and policies.

All of this tends in the nation's most important political state to anchor the Democratic Party to the left of center. There is little likelihood of any shift other than further to the left.

This Democratic fixture of left-of-center position is the tie that binds the Democratic Party together in the North.

ON THE BALL

Mistaken Identity Victim

Dennis Swiantek, classy Bellmar High halfback, was a victim of circumstances in Thursday night's game with Dunbar, as far as getting credit for his fine play was concerned . . . A spotter confused Denny's number with that of a teammate and when laurels were handed out they went to the teammate and not Swiantek, despite some terrific ball-carrying by the 'Cane speedster . . . The Parent-Teachers Association served refreshments to the mothers, fathers of MHS gridders and coaches after the Duquesne game Friday night . . . Another highlight was the treating of the Duquesne band to refreshments by the local Orchestra-Band Parents Association, a gesture which brought praise from the Duquesne band director . . . Too bad the football team couldn't have posted a victory for Coach Niccolai on his birthday, another event of Friday . . . The 'Hounds could have won with just a bit more alert play and decent tackling.

Several "big time" sports celebrities in addition to Terry Brennan have been "signed" for the annual Big Five banquet at Twin Coaches on Dec. 11 and have you noticed how much wire coverage the fete is getting this year? . . . Although local school officials are very anxious to play Brownsville High, the word from the Fayette County school keeps hinting that the game will be cancelled, which will certainly muddle the Big Five standings should the locals go on to win the Donora game and Charleroi suffer an upset . . . With one game left unplayed and two teams tied for first place how would you decide a winner unless you'd say the team that didn't complete it's schedule loses? . . . But that would be penalizing a school that could do nothing about not playing or, in fact, did everything possible to play it.

The latest publicity blurb tells of Crawley breaking through to spill an Ohio U. frosh ball-carrier for a seven-yard loss . . . Varsity Coach Bud Kerr, sitting in the press box said, "Did you see the way that Crawley maneuvered through there? That was a key tackle." . . . The Flyers defeated Ohio, 12-6, and the Ohio visitors were on their way to an apparent second TD at the Dayton 12 when Crawley stopped the drive . . . He was also the running star of the game with 73 yards in 12 rushing plays and has been dubbed "Big Bertha" by school publicists . . . "He'll make a good fullback for the varsity next year," says Stan Zajdel, Dayton frosh coach.

Carrying over their feud from the softball field the BV and NBV firemen have carded bowling matches to settle the sports supremacy argument . . . The first match was set for Sunday but according to Sam Fiorino, spokesman for the North Belle Vernon keglers, only Venneri and Jim Walls, another "downtown" fire-fighter showed, so a "pick-up" match had to be rolled . . . We're betting the "absentees" have a good explanation.

Brownsville Gridders Supermen?

Brownsville High School's grid team must be a squad of "supermen" or at least they must be trying to find out if they have such qualities with three games carded in seven days . . . Brownsville played Uniontown Friday night, Monongahela last night and meets Connelisville Friday of this week . . . Frank Wydo, former German Township and Pittsburgh Steeler star now with the Philadelphia Eagles, was elected tax collector in his native township (German) by a wide margin last week . . . Speaking of pro gridders, our pal Lou Kichinko's friend Elroy Hirsch has been named to the Helms Athletic Foundations Hall of Fame for footballers.

Defensive Grid Play Like 20 Years Ago

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Versatile defenses have made college football a throwback to the game as it was played 50 years ago, veteran Ossie Solem of Springfield College contended today.

Solem should know. Because Ossie currently is in his 38th season of collegiate coaching with an overall record of 160 wins against 119 losses and 20 ties.

That makes the tall, silent, white-haired man the active dean of college grid coaches.

"The big trend has been toward ball control," he explained as he prepared to send his Springfield team against undefeated Hofstra. "The main reason is that the defense has become so versatile and most of the time you're facing a nine-man line. It's a throwback to 50 years ago because now you can throw only enough to maintain the ball."

Has Lost Twice

Ossie's team isn't unbeaten this year, having lost two of seven games, but the pre-World War I Minnesota end can look back on last season's unbeaten record without any qualms or superstitions.

"They cured me of superstitions when I was at Drake University," he grins. "We weren't doing too well at Drake in 1921 and were trailing 7 to 0 in one game when one of the boys found a penny on the field and flipped it to me."

The boy said happily:

"Here's a lucky penny. Watch us go now."

Drake did, too, scoring 15 points in the next few minutes to win the game. After that, before every game the players would "find" a "lucky" penny for Ossie. They didn't lose another game that year and the following season went unbeaten.

"I was kind of relieved when we finally lost a game late the following season," Solem recalls. "My coat pocket was bulging with 'lucky pennies' the kids had found and they were getting to be quite a nuisance."

Before coaching at Drake, Ossie had taken a brief whack at practicing law with his brothers in Minneapolis and then enlisted in the Army at the outbreak of World War I, emerging two years later with the rank of captain. After one year at Luther College, he took over at Drake and subsequently moved on to Iowa, Syracuse and Springfield.

There is something spiritual in Ossie's facial serenity and the soft-speaking Solem has had a profound effect on his players. His credo is to "leave no regrets on the field" and his players admire clamness and control.

He hasn't done too badly with his philosophy, either. In 1937 two of his Syracuse assistants were a couple of fellows named Bud Wilkinson and Biggie Munn. A few years later one of the best players he turned out at Syracuse was a guy named Duffy Daugherty.

If those names sound familiar, they should. They were named coach of the year respectively in 1949, 1953 and 1955. An honor which Ossie never won but, then, he's been too busy being one of the coaches of the last half century.

Donora Boasts Streak

Donora High, Monessen's next grid foe, whom the Greyhounds meet at Donora Friday night, is currently up to its old tricks of getting stronger as the season progresses.

After a slow start, Coach Jimmy Russell's Dragons are currently riding the crest of a five-game winning streak.

During that streak they have defeated Erie Cathedral, Har-Brack, Brownsville, Monongahela and Washington.

Prior to the Erie Cathedral contest, the Dragons had lost to North Catholic, Greensburg, and Charleroi. Since the Cougar clash they have not lost a game. A game with Redstone was cancelled

Dragon Backs Tops

Pacing the Donora team is Angie Dabiero and Tom Urbanik as the Donorans more or less show a team on the order of the Monessen entry with a terrific backfield but a little line trouble.

Injuries have played a large part in the line problems at Donora as well as the flu taking toll.

Wally Fronzaglio, Neil Clark, son of Moon Clark, the Dragon line mentor, Bill Kuzemka, and Butch Tokay form the bulwark up front with help from Hal Rice and Bing Alcott, holdover ends.

Its the backfield, however, that keeps the Dragons moving as Tom Watson helps with his blocking from he right halfback post with Davey Russell at the quarterback slot to team with Urbanik and Dabiero.

On the local scene, Coach Niccolai is still concentrating on tackling as he is determined not to have a repeat of the terrible exhibition of tackling at the Duquesne game here Friday.

Monongahela Shocks Brownsville by 27-6

Coach Al Cree's Monongahela High Wildcat gridders waited until the postponed game with Brownsville yesterday afternoon at Brownsville to play one of their finest games of the season and post a mild upset 26-7 win over the Brownies.

Monongahela spotted Brownsville a 7-0 lead, came back to win scoring six in the second period for a 7-6 half-time count and then posted 20 in the second half to clinch the victory.

It was the third win of the season for Monongahela, second in Big Five Conference play.

Monongahela roared back on a 74-yard drive, capped by Jim Robertson's 15-yard pass to Bob Penrod, cutting the deficit to 7-6

The Wildcats stopped another Brownsville threat on the Mon City 10 later in the second period with the half ending, 7-6.

65 Yard Run

Two more touchdowns in the final chapter sewed it up for the Wildcats. Ji mRobertson's one-yard plunge capped a 60-yard movement and Milton Diaz drove across from the four.

The Wildcats chalked up 15 first downs against seven for the Brownies.

Score by periods:

Brownsville	0	7	0	0	—7

The long run came in the third period. Derry scored twice in the first and two other TDs in the third session. Rajacich scored on a 60-yard pass play and Graham ran 42 yards for another six-pointer.

Marshall Favors Series

WASHINGTON (UP) — Washington owner George Preston Marshall said Monday he would like to arrange a home-and-home series each season with his Redskins and the Baltimore Colts. The clubs meet only once each season because they are in different divisions of the National Football League. They drew a capacity crowd of 33,149 Sunday to Griffith Stadium.

Where Are They Now?

EARLE (GREASY) NEALE

One sport at a time never was enough for Earle (Greasy) Neale. A major league outfielder for nine years, he continued to coach football. One season, he spent the summer with the Cincinnati Redlegs and the fall directing a brilliant Washington and Jefferson eleven that wound up in the Rose Bowl. In 1949 he was "pro coach of the year" for his job on the Philadelphia Eagles but after 36 years of coaching the string ran out when the Eagles dropped him in 1951.

Whatever happened to Greasy Neale? In all his years in pro sports he annually saved exactly half his salary and in New York today, at 64, "I'm doing nothing and love it, nothing except play golf and watch a football game occasionally."

Colman Officially Named Princeton Head Grid Coach

PRINCETON, N.J. (UP)— Dick Colman, who guided Princeton's football team to first place in the Ivy League as acting head coach, took over today as the full-fledged new coach of the Tigers on a three-year contract extending through 1960.

Colman was officially named head coach Monday on his 43rd birthday, succeeding his gridiron "father," Charley Caldwell, who died of cancer on Nov. 1.

The Tigers, currently leading the Ivy League with a record of six victories in seven games under Colman, greeted the announcement of his appointment at Monday's practice with a cheer and then went back to work getting ready for a key tussle this Saturday against Yale.

Colman, 17th head coach in Princeton's 89-year football history, promised the squad to "do the best job possible."

Colman had been acting head coach since Sept. 23, five days before the start of the season, when poor health forced Caldwell to drop the reins.

Marshall Still Pacing Scoring In AHL Chase

NEW YORK (UP)—Willie Marshall of Hershey, although held to one goal and an assist last week, maintained his seven-point lead in the American Hockey League scoring race.

Marshall, according to official league statistics, also led in goals scored and assists for the fourth consecutive week. The 25-year-old center has compiled 27 points on 13 goals and 14 assists.

Dunc Fisher, right wing on Marshall's high-scoring line, is second in total points with 20. Bill Sweeney of Providence gained six points in last week's action to boost his total to 19, good for third place. Tied for fourth place with 17 points each are Gerry Ehman of Springfield, Jimmy Moore of Cleveland and Bruce Carmichael of Providence.

Eddie Shack, a rookie with Providence, upped his penalty minutes to 58 to retain his league lead in this department.

Hershey's Gil Mayer, out with the flu all week, remains the leading goaltender with a 2.00 average. He has yielded 14 goals in seven games. However, Johnny Bower of Cleveland leads in shutouts with two.

Meshach Inks Pact

BROOKLYN (UP)— Marvis Meshach, a Blairstown, N.J., basketball and baseball star, has been signed by the Los Angeles Dodgers and assigned to their Kokomo, Ind., farm club.

Gator Bowl List Narrowed Down To Nine Teams

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)— The Gator Bowl selection committee expects to have a better idea following games this weekend which teams are potential contenders for the earliest of the major post-season bowl games.

Committee Chairman Sam Wolfson disclosed Monday the number of teams under consideration has already been narrowed to nine.

They are Texas A&M, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas Christian, Texas, Arkansas, Vanderbilt, Miami (Fla.) and Mississippi State.

George Olsen business manager of the Gator Bowl Assn., added that officials hope for "a top intersectional contest" for the Dec. 28 Gator Bowl, which would probably pit a Southeastern Conference team against one from the Southwest.

Last year, the Gator Bowl matched Pittsburgh and Georgia Tech in what was generally conceded one of the year's best bowl games.

Mississippi was the first state in the Union to set up a state-supported college for women. The institution was founded in 1884.

Archer Scores 12th Straight Welter Victory

NEW YORK (UP) — Welterweight Jimmy Archer, a fighting stevedore from Pier 88, will get his first main event at Madison Square Garden, Dec. 20, for scoring his 12th straight victory Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena.

Archer, 22, won his second consecutive split decision over Tony DeCola of Brooklyn in their return TV 10-rounder. Jimmy took the first split verdict over 21-year-old DeCola in the same ring on Sept. 30.

Archer weighed 148 pounds; DeCola, 147.

Matchmaker Billy Brown of the International Boxing Club, which has no apparent connection with little St. Nick's, was at the ringside Monday night, and signed Archer for a Dec. 20 fight against an opponent to be agreed upon later.

Coincidentally, Archer's 19-year-old brother Joey — also a welterweight — scored his 12th straight victory at St. Nick's Monday night by winning every round in the six-round semifinal with Paul Griffin of Brooklyn.

During the Archer-DeCola main event, four fist fights broke out among the rival admirers, and police ejected the principals from the arena.

It was Jimmy's 15th victory in 16 fights and DeCola's ninth defeat in 35.

DeCola's good performance, despite his defeat, earned him another TV bout at St. Nick's on Nov. 25 against Larry Boardman of Marlboro, Conn.

German Eliminates South Union, 33-0

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 12 — The list of WPIAL Class A eligibles was reduced to two here this afternoon when visiting German Township whacked Sluth Union, 33-0, before 5,000 fans.

The victory was the sixth in eight starts for German. It was the Blue Devils' first defeat after seven consecutive wins.

Aggies Again Top UP Grid Ratings; Auburn Climbs

NEW YORK (UP)—Texas A&M, Oklahoma and Auburn, the nation's three perfect-record college football powers, retained the 1-2-3 ratings of the United Press board of coaches today in the extremely close race for the national championship.

Michigan State, Iowa and Ohio State, the three titans from the Big Ten Conference, remained in contention right behind the top three following a weekend in which the leaders won as expected. The first six rankings were unchanged from last week.

Tennessee advanced three notches to No. 7, followed in order by the service academies, Navy and Army, with Duke this week's newcomer among the top 10 in the 10th ranking.

Texas Aggies No. 1

Only 57 points separated the first four teams this week. Texas A&M was the No. 1 choice of 14 members of the 35-man United Press rating board; Oklahoma received eight first-place votes, Auburn six and Michigan State five.

Rarely have four teams been in such close contention for the top rating at such a late stage of the season. In points, distributed on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first to 10th places, the Texas Aggies led with 307 out of a possible 350; Oklahoma had 287, Auburn 256 and Michigan State 250.

Iowa and Ohio State, each with one first-place vote, followed with 228 and 184 points, respectively. Tennessee had 116, Navy 82, Army 79 and Duke 44.

Shakeup On Top

A shakeup in the top 10 may be expected next week following battles between some of the ranking powers. Texas A&M best bet for the Cotton Bowl, takes on Rice (tied for the 15th ranking this week). Oklahoma, which has clinched an Orange Bowl berth, plays Notre Dame (tied for No. 20) in Saturday's nationally-televised game.

Auburn faces a "breather" in unranked Georgia, but Michigan State plays tough Minnesota and Ohio State has a chance to qualify for the Rose Bowl by beating Iowa.

Mississippi, another leading bowl prospect, headed the second 10 group, followed in order by Arizona (Tempe) State, Wisconsin and Clemson. There was a five-team tie for 15th place among Arkansas, Dartmouth, Oregon, Rice and Stanford. Tied for 20th place were Notre Dame, Penn State and UCLA, Holy Cross, Illinois and North Carolina each received one point this week.

Panthers Given Two-Day Rest

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Coach Johnny Michelosen has ordered a two-day rest for his niversity of Pittsburgh football team before opening practice for the annual battle with Penn State at Pitt Stadium Nov. 23.

Hampered by several injuries, the Panthers can well use the rest.

Center Charley Brueckman, a candidate for All-America honors, has a shoulder separation and may not be ready for the Penn State game. Tackle Jim McCusker, nursing an injured wrist, was expected to see action against the Lions.

Navy Leads in Lambert Race Over Cadet 11

NEW YORK (UP)—Navy, held to a 6-6 tie by Duke Saturday, owned a slim lead over Army today in the competition for the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of the Eastern major college football championship.

Navy had a 9.5 rating out of a possible 10, while Army earned a 9.4 rating off its 39-33 win over Utah. Navy has been beaten twice, while Army has lost only to Notre Dame.

The two teams meet in Philadelphia Nov. 30 in their annual get-together which more than likely will decide the Eastern championships.

Penn State, with a 5-2 record, was rated third, while Boston College (6-1) was jumped from seventh to fourth after defeating Boston U. Syracuse (4-2-1) dropped from fourth to fifth, while Dartmouth (6-0-1) was sixth, Princeton (6-1) seventh, Pittsburgh (3-5) dropped to eighth, Holy Cross (4-2-1) was ninth and Boston U. (4-3) was 10th.

Villanova, Yale and Brown were the only other schools drawing support.

Lane May Get GM Position With Indians

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)— The Cleveland Indians' board of directors met today amidst reports that Frank Lane, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, would be named to a similar post with Cleveland.

The directors were scheduled to name a successor to Hank Greenberg, fired last month, and reports persisted that Lane would get the job.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer flatly predicted late Monday night that Lane would be named Greenberg's successor. However Tribe officials refused to comment on any of the reports.

The Plain Dealer said Lane conferred in Chicago Sunday with two Indians' vice presidents — Nate Dolin and George Medinger. The officials earlier interviewed Bill De Witt, former general manager of the defunct St. Louis Browns.

DeWitt reportedly was dropped from consideration because he refused to accept anything but a three-year contract.

The first manufactured product to be exported from the United States was sent by Capt. John Smith of Jamestown, Va. It consisted of wood made into panels for wainscoting.

Others — Holy Cross, Illinois and North Carolina, 1 each.

Franchise Ills Snowballing for Minor Leagues

NEW YORK (UP) — Minor league officials discuss their franchise headaches with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick again today but problems were snowballing so fast that a solution was said to be a month away.

Officials of the Pacific Coast League, American Association, and Texas League were slated to meet with Frick this morning.

It was learned from a high baseball source, however, that the franchise switches being forced by the transfer of the Dodgers to Los rangeles and the Giants to San Francisco are becoming so complex that they won't be settled until the winter major-league meetings in Colorado Springs, Colo., in December.

Today's meeting is a follow-up to a meeting held last Thursday, but unlike that earlier get-together will not be secret.

Presumably, officials at today's meeting will be armed with further authority from their respective leagues, because at the conclusion of Thursday's meeting Frick announced that "a number of possibilities were considered which the representatives at the meeting will take back to their leagues and clubs."

The meeting was called to settle indemnities as well as the reorganization of the top minor leagues forced by the Dodger-Giant switches. Pacific Coast League owners are dissatisfied with the reported $100,000 indemnity offered them by the major league teams and some have threatened suits — a development major league leaders would like to avoid.

Editors Favor Latins

LONDON (UP)—A United Press poll of leading Western European sports editors showed decided favoritism toward South America today to win the 1958 world soccer title. Brazil and Argentina were the top picks of 45 editors polled in 15 countries with England also drawing strong support.

Parker Says Steelers Suffer From Giantitis, Brownitis

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Coach Buddy Parker says his Pittsburgh Steeler team appears to be afflicted with "Giantitis" and "Brownitis."

Parker told the Curbstone Coaches Club Monday the Steelers seemed to tighten up when they play the New York Giants or Cleveland Browns.

"Against New York and Cleveland we somehow lose our poise," Parker said, "Maybe you should call it Giantitis and Brownitis."

The records bear Parker out. The Steelers have a 4-3 season chart in National Football League competition and the Browns defeated them twice and the Giants once.

Parker said he doubted whether the Browns, leading the Eastern Division, have a team "good enough" to win the NFL championship. He said the lack of a good quarterback would hurt Cleveland's chances.

The ex-Detroit mentor selected the Giants in the east and the Detroit Lions in the Western Division as the teams to beat.

"Only three or four teams have good enough quarterbacks to win," Parker said. "The (San Francisco) Forty-Niners are good enough, but I don't think they'll win. The Lions are good enough and the Giants with (Charley) Conerly are good enough."

Parker eliminated his own Steelers as possible title contenders this year but insisted they would be a "definite" possibility next year.

The Steeler coach singled out Earl Morrall as eventually "being one of the great quarterbacks."

"He's remarkable," Parker said. "Along with Jack Kemp and Len Dawson the Steelers have three of the best young quarterbacks in the league. We gave up our lives to get them.

"We have the two basic requirements for a winning offense —quarterbacks and good receivers. However, we need ball carriers. This is the worst running team. I've ever seen. When the quarterbacks hand off the ball we just figure on a zero in yardage gained."

Parker gave his Steelers a holiday until Thursday when he will open drills for the game with the Green Bay Packers at Forbes Field Nov. 24.

Sporstmen's Corner—

Hunting Casualties in State Unusually Low

Reports received in the Harrisburg office of the Game Commission so far this year show that human fatalities by firearms used in hunting wildlife in Pennsylvania are at an unusual low. But the wildlife authorities are only cautiously optimistic at this time.

For no apparent reason summertime gun casualties are sometimes comparatively high, but during the fall game season there will be few fatalities. In other years the record may be very satisfactory until bear or deer season, when the number rises out of normal proportion.

Hunting can be, and usually is, a safe and enjoyable outdoor sport. Keeping it safe merely requires the use of good sense, care in the pointing of firearms, always, and making certain that legal game, nothing else, is sighted before the trigger is squeezed.

The Commission cautions: The record is a good one, so far this year. It is hoped the sportsmen will keep it that way by observing the rules of gun and hunting safety, and seeing to it that others do the same.

Early Hunters Exposed

On October 12 two hunters stopped their auto on a road through the Conneaut Marsh, in Crawford County, and asked two men nearby "Where's the nearest town? We've had the best duck hunting ever, and we need more shotgun shells".

The men in the marsh inquired, "Have any luck?" In reply the hunters displayed several ducks they had bagged. Told that the Pennsylvania waterfowl season would not officially open until three days later the duck hunters were further embarrassed to learn that the men to whom their questions were addressed were R. E. Latimer and A. G. Logue, Waterfowl Management Agents for the Game Commission. According to the story the unhappy shooters told these Game Protectors their city buddies had advised them this buddies had advised them this was "D Day".

County treasurers in the following counties have reported that their allocation of licenses for the anterless deer season of December 16, 17, and 18 is completely sold out: Adams; Armstrong; Berks; Blair; Bucks; Centre; Clarion; Clinton; Dauphin; Franklin; Lebanon; Luzerne; Mifflin; Monroe; Perry; Pike; Schuylkill; Union; Venango; and Westmoreland.

Many Miners Back at Work; Crucible Out

WAYNESBURG, Pa (UP) — More than 10,000 coal miners idled by a wildcat walkout returned to work today but the 400 workers at Crucible Steel Company's Greene County mine, who touched off the work stoppage, remained on strike.

The Crucible miners agreed Monday to call off the roving pickets which had closed 16 other mines last week, but they voted continue their own walkout in an effort to force settlement of a seniority dispute growing out of the layoff of 83 employes

William Lavin, president of United Mine Workers Local 4731, said the Crucible pickets had closed the other pits to call attention to their dispute with the company, but that they now have accomplished all they could

All mines were closed Monday for Veterans Day Work was resumed at all but the Crucible mine last midnight

Lavin said members of his local at a meeting Monday had "agreed there would be no 'splinter picketing' by small dissident groups at any other mines"

"There was no point in causing hardships to other workers by a longer work stoppage," he said.

The Crucible pickets had closed mines in Greene, Washington and Fayette Counties.

Students at Jefferson School Taught More Than the 'Three R's'

(This is the second in a series of articles prepared by the Monessen Education Association in connection with the city's observance of American Education Week. Today's article, written by special education teacher Helen Fecsen, describes the program at the Jefferson elementary school.)

By HELEN FECSEN

At Jefferson school, students are taught more than the necessary "Three R's"

This fact will be presented dramatically to parents and friends when they visit the school as part of the American Education Week observance.

As the visitors enter the Jefferson doors, they will be greeted with melodies from the music room which is "conveniently" located near the entrance

As they tour the building, the visitors will have an opportunity to sit in on art classes, physical education classes and special education classes.

Of course, most of the children will be busily engaged in learning reading, writing, arithmetic and many other subjects which will help to mould them into better citizens of tomorrow

There is individualized instruction at Jefferson, too This is offered for Special Education classes.

In the morning, these children study the "Three R's" but under individualized instruction with each child working on his respective level.

In the afternoon, these pupils participate in many manual activities. Some of them will weave rugs, place mats, or make hats Others will engage in sewing — making skirts, pajamas, aprons and other articles.

Still others will be busy painting, cutting, sanding or designing A few of the children will make fluffy novelties.

It's all part of the Jefferson school program to have a pupil work on his own level of interest at his own rate of speed In this manner, the child is happy because he reached success and satisfaction.

Visitors at Jefferson may also find the youngsters drinking milk This is also part of the school day.

'Where Ya' Been?

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP)—Frank Benjamin, a 33-year-old laborer, got arrested on suspicion of burglary because he wanted to better himself. He broke into a sporting goods store, threw an ash can lid through a window to attract attention and then, upon the arrival of police, explained: "I've been waiting for you. I'm just a laborer and can't get a job I decided to go to prison to learn a trade."

Crucible Steel Buys Titanium Firm Outright

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Crucible Steel Co today announced it has acquired 100 per cent ownership of Rem-Cru Titanium, Inc., subject to approval by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Crucible, already half owner of Rem-Cru, said it gave 150,000 shares of its common stock for the other half, owned by Remington Arms Co. The stock was valued at $2,746,000 on the New York exchange.

Joel Hunter, Crucible president, said recent months have shown that "the titanium business can best be conducted as part of the specialty steel business."

"Plant facilities for production of titanium are virtually identical with those required for stainless and other specialty steels and alloys in which we are interested," Hunter said. "In addition to acquiring valuable properties, we will be in a better position to continue the development of titanium"

Rem-Cru was organized by Crucible and Remington Arms in 1950 as a joint subsidiary. The firm produces titanium ingots, slabs and billets at Midland, Pa., for conversion into mill products, chiefly at nearby Crucible facilities.

Approximately 150 workers have been furloughed at Rem-Cru, because of a decline in demand from the aircraft industry. D W. Kaufman, sales manager, said the layoffs were "temporary" and he hoped the force would be returned to its 750-man level by January.

Hope Is Waning For Rescue of 44 Aboard Plane

HONOLULU (UP)—Hope waned today for the rescue of any survivors from a Pan American Stratocruiser missing since Friday with 44 persons aboard.

Even as more ships and planes joined in what appeared to be a futile search, Pan American World Airways launched an investigation to determine if there was "any element of a crime" in the disappearance of the plane.

"We will go into all angles possible," said a Pan American spokesman in San Francisco. "Our first job is to find the plane, of course, but it is also our duty to determine the cause of the plane's disappearance."

The plane, a four-engined Boeing, vanished Friday afternoon while flying from San Francisco to Honolulu with 36 passengers and a crew of eight

So far, every clue investigated by the ships and planes taking part in the biggest peacetime search in history has turned out to be false

How to Tell Difference Between 'Normal' and 'Neurotic' Behavior

(This is the second of three dispatches in which Dr. Fritz Redl, a leading psychologist, discusses the problem of child misbehavior. Today he tells how a parent can distinguish between "normal" and "neurotic" misbehavior.)

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — All children misbehave. Most misbehavior is entirely normal Once in a great while, misbehavior is the surface symptom of emotional illness which requires professional treatment.

Unfortunately for parents it is not always easy to distinguish neurotic conduct from normal mischief. But there are significant differences which can be spotted.

For this, you have the word of Dr. Fritz Redl, whom many regard as the world's leading authority on "disturbed" children. Redl is chief of the laboratory for child research at the National Institute of Mental Health

"The first thing I would impress upon parents," he said in an interview, "is that you cannot judge the 'seriousness' of a child's misbehavior by the degree to which it happens to annoy you.

Normal Vs Abnormal

"Some of the most 'normal' things that children do are a great nuisance to adults. On the other hand, conduct that is very easy on grown-up nerves—such as sitting quietly in a corner — may under some circumstances be indicative of severe neurotic problems."

Redl said it is impossible to draw up two lists of behavior traits and say "normal children do this, sick children do that"

"It is not what a child does, but when and how and why he does it that is the tip-off to emotional illness," he said.

"There is usually a compulsive quality about the misbehavior of the disturbed child. I call it 'driveness' He approaches trouble as if he were being driven into it, tense and unhappy He never derives the relaxed enjoyment which a healthy child finds in a mischievous prank"

For example, Redl said, most young children who are on the verge of misbehavior can be checked by diverting their attention to something else. But the "driven" child is likely to be "undivertable" He pushes headlong into trouble no matter how many distractions you wave at him.

Overacting Is Natural

Another test is "the degree to which a child's behavior is way out of proportion to the thing which sets it off." A certain amount of "over-reacting" is natural to children. But it is cause for concern when "a small spark invariably starts a large fire," as in the child who chronically flies into rages over trivial disappointments

"Age-appropriatness" is a third gauge of normal vs neurotic conduct. It is normal for a 3-year-old to ignore the difference between fantasy and fact; it is not a trait which you expect to find in an 8-year-old.

Similarly, it is normal for a boy in early adolescence to form intimate friendships with other boys "as a defense against being with girls in situations which cause him to panic" But you might begin to worry if unvarying preference for male companionship persisted into the later teens.

Maturation Varies

Children mature at different rates, and you should allow considerable latitude in determining whether a child's conduct is appropriate to his age, Redl warned

He urged similar caution in applying the other tests. A perfectly normal child will, on some occasions, act with an intensity that a worried parent might consider neurotic

The thing to look for is not some isolated "symptom" but a persistent pattern of extreme conduct that cannot be "rationally related" to the child's age or environment that seems to "come from some force within the child" which he is unable to control.

If you find that, or think you do, arrange through your family doctor, the school, or a clinic for professional diagnosis. It may prove your fears unfounded, or it may start your child on the way to needed help.

"THEY'RE CATCHING ON, BUT THEY CAN'T CATCH UP." That's how lots of people feel about the "new 1958" cars that are trying to match the Dodge Swept-Wing look. These other cars have been lowered some, but still seem high and boxy by comparison. A few are "catching on" to fins, but they're years from "catching up." And the air suspension offered by some cars (at well over $100 extra) can't compare with the sway-free, dip-free ride of Dodge Torsion-Aire (standard equipment on all models). Jury Selection Begins Today In Beck Trial

SEATTLE (UP)—Jury selection begins today for the trial of Dave Beck Jr. on charges he sold two Cadillacs belonging to the Teamsters Union and kept the $4,650 sale price.

The son of retiring Teamsters President Dave Beck was indicted July 12 by a King County grand jury on two counts of grand larceny. His father, outgoing president of the Teamsters, also was indicted on one count of grand larceny, charged with keeping for himself $1,900 from the sale of a 1952 Cadillac belonging to the Western Conference of Teamsters.

The trial of Beck Sr. is scheduled to begin Dec 12.

The first count against Beck Jr. accuses him of having in his possession Oct. 8, 1954, $1,850 obtained from the sale of a 1951 Cadillac which was the property of the Joint Council of Teamsters, No. 28.

In the other count, the younger Beck is accused of having on Sept. 2, 1955, $2,800 from the sale of a 1953 Cadillac to a Seattle fireman.

Both counts state that the money from the sales never reached the union's treasuries.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Richard Harger, who died two years ago, November 11, 1955.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep
His memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by son, Emerson, wife Margaret and grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Christena Peters, who died eight years ago, November 11, 1949.
Gone, dear mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by Daughter, Son and Grandchildren.

In loving memory of Dora Micheletti who died two years ago today, November 12, 1955.
We live today with memories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by the Micheletti Family

16 Marines to Stand Trial for Brutality Charges

YOKOSUKA NAVAL BASE, Japan (UP)—The U.S. Navy today ordered 16 Marines to stand trial before military courts on charges of brutality and maltreatment of Navy prisoners at the Sasebo Naval Base brig.

The accusations made by the prisoners were reminiscent of the brutalities detailed in the book on Army life in pre-war Hawaii, "From Here To Eternity."

Vice Adm. Roscoe F. Good, commander of U.S. Naval Forces in Japan, ordered the Marines remanded for trial after what the Navy said were "lengthy and exhaustive investigations" into the charges.

The announcement said the trials would begin Thursday at the Yokosuka Base, the headquarters of U.S. Naval forces in Japan.

The investigation was ordered after prisoners at the brig complained their Marine guards had inflicted such "tortures" as:

—"Knuckle Drills" in which Marines put prisoners against the wall and "worked them over with their knuckles."

—"Back-to-belly" treatment in which prisoners were forced to run at quick time so close to each other they trod on the heels of the man in front while guards prodded them with clubs.

—"Shower treatment" where guards scrubbed them raw and bleeding with hard scrub brushes.

Flu Fatality Count Mounts Steadily Today

By UNITED PRESS

The nation's fatality count due to flu mounted steadily today, and an Iowa health official said Asian flu has been definitely identified as the cause of that state's flu outbreak.

A United Press count showed that Asian flu, other types of influenza and complications of both have claimed 718 lives since the first major outbreak last summer.

New York led the nation with 134 dead. Other hard-hit states were Pennsylvania, 100, and Georgia, where flu deaths have been climbing the fastest—92 dead. California and Michigan reported 41 each.

At Des Moines, meanwhile, Dr. James Spears, public health director for Des Moines and Polk County, said that recent laboratory tests at Iowa City have revealed that at least two of 12 blood samples taken from flu victims showed the presence of the Asian virus.

Court Rules Out Big Commission

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The state Supreme Court Monday denied a $100,000 commission to Boyd M. Swank, ousted president and director of the Vandergrift Savings & Trust Co., for arranging the sale of the firm.

The former official was discharged after selling control to the People's Union Bank of McKeesport in a stock deal on which he allegedly made $100,000.

In a decision handed down in Allegheny County Common Pleas Court last May 6, the fee was dismissed and the bank was forbidden to pay Swank's claims for $5,512 in accrued dividends on his stock which he sold to the McKeesport bank.

Veteran TV Announcer WorksHard

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — The eyes have it since the advent of TV, but that doesn't mean the ears have had it.

So believes Frank Gallop, an announcer whose mellow tones have been caressing the nation's tympani for more than 20 years. Gallop, an alumnus of such radio shows as Milton Berle's, "Gangbusters" and the New York Philharmonic, currently works for television's Perry Como.

Gallop owns the mystery voice that booms out during the gag station breaks on the NBC-TV Como Show.

Where's Old Timers?

"Everybody keeps asking what's happened to the old time announcer," said Gallop, "well, the answer is nothing has happened to him. He's still with us on TV. The picture hasn't killed him at all. In fact, he's making more money than ever."

However, Gallop confesses TV has made work harder for the announcer. "You can take the 'Stella Dallas' Show I used to do on radio as an example," he said. "I'd walk into the studio 20 minutes before airtime, look over my copy and that was it.

"On a television show like the Como hour, we work far harder. Unbelievably harder. There have been times when we've worked far into the night just blocking out camera moves."

Many of the new announcers spawned by TV are curly-haired, dimpled and darling, but Gallop points out that good looks alone won't sell a sponsor's product.

"One of the biggest fallacies about the television announcing business is the belief that we just walk out there, pick up a piece of paper and start reading and that's all there is to it," said Gallop.

Product of Hard Work

"How untrue that belief is. You'll find that every successful announcer is the product of long years of work. A voice that has authority and ease is not something you can develop overnight.

"I can name you two handfuls of old time announcers who are still working hard — fellow like Ben Grauer, Hugh James, Ed Herlihy, Don Wilson I could tick off dozens more. They're working, and will continue to work because they've labored long and hard to develop a flow that sounds effortless.

"That's why all the dimples and wavy hair in the world don't mean a thing if those looks aren't backed up with experience. That's why even 'Ghoul' Gallop goes on and on."

Gallop, a former bond salesman from Boston who got into the radio business back in 1934, is rarely seen on camera on the Como Show. Strangely enough, he likes it that way.

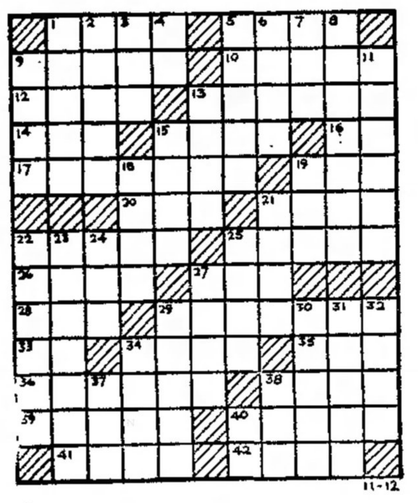
Yesterday's Answer



From Broadway—

Beauty not Enough For Girl, Actor Says

(Vernon Scott is on vacation. Today's columnist is Robert Cummings — the man with the prettiest girls in television on his show.)

By ROBERT CUMMINGS

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Now that I have this chance to do a guest column, I'll answer a question that has been asked me by many people many times.

Is beauty of face and figure enough for a young girl to succeed in show business today?

No, it is not. A pretty girl must have not only appeal in the eternally pertinent definition of sex appeal, but today she must have a reasonably high IQ. Without it, her chances for attention and opportunity in theatrical attainments are considerably lessened.

Train Baby Star

In previous years, when the movie studios reigned alone in supplying fare for the entertainment appetites, it was the custom to develop, train and nurture the baby star with patience and repetition. Considerable time and lots of money were spent to preen the movie queen.

If she didn't walk through a door just right and it was necessary to film the action in 20, 30, sometimes 50 takes, it was accepted as a matter of course by all—except possibly, the producer—the man with the money in the front office living in hope and dying in despair.

In this era of electronic speed, television production just doesn't provide the time to shoot over and over because a player can't be alert and has to be coached again and again to do a scene right. This doesn't mean that a performer doesn't dare "blow a take" once in a while.

Bob Cummings

Actors Need Know-How

But, the same "bit" or "action" may be shot from several angles which is time - consuming, and that's exactly why production can't hold still for consistent errors in performance. Young players today have to develop know-how quickly and easily for the sake of speed and a budget far below motion picture appropriation.

Since time immemorial, a pretty girl has been a treat to the eye, but acceptance of the "beautiful, but dumb" is no more.

You won't find the simpering beauty with the vacant, blue-eyed baby stare and the pouty, bee-stung lips. She went out with rolled stockings and the marathon dance.

No, Betty Boop doesn't work here anymore.

Diabetes Victims Sought

A nation-wide effort to find almost one million Americans who are unsuspecting victims of a puzzling and sometimes fatal disease, will get underway on Nov. 17 to 23, during Diabetes Week.

The purpose: to find those who are still undetected victims of diabetes so that they may get proper, and possibly life-saving, medical care.

Authorities estimate that there are now about two million diabetics in the United States. That means that one person in every 80 is a victim of the ailment. Even more important, they point out that about 4,750,000 living Americans are likely to develop diabetes in the future.

The importance of early detection of diabetes can't be overestimated, according to these medical experts. Dr. Howard Root, medical director of Boston's Joslin Clinic, a world-famous diabetes treatment and research center, says that 12 to 15 per cent of all patients admitted to the clinic in diabetic coma are unaware that they have diabetes. In contrast, statisticians at the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, attribute the gradual decline in diabetes mortality to early diagnosis and treatment.

In recent years, diabetics have been able to live practically normal lives with daily self-injections of insulin, careful diets and constant hygienic care. Good news for diabetics came in 1957 with the development of Orinase, a remarkable oral drug that can replace the insulin injection in selected cases of mild diabetes.

In the diabetic, the pancreas fails to produce sufficient insulin, a hormone which helps to convert carbohydrates — sugar and starches — into "fuel" for body energy. As a result, the body uses other resources — such as fat and protein — for energy. Unless better conversion of carbohydrates is made possible for the diabetes victim, it eventually leads to coma and even death.

Insulin Helpful

For hundreds of years, doctors could find no way to combat the ailment and severe diabetics frequently had a very short life span. In 1921, two Canadian scientists found a way to extract insulin from the pancreas of animals, and manufacture of the vitally needed hormone followed soon after.

Last June, The Upjohn Company announced the development of a tablet that would reduce the diabetic's high blood sugar level. Tested on thousands of American patients in one of the largest medical trials of its kind, Orinase is now being used by 250,000 diabetics.

The development of Orinase means a new way of life, and "freedom from the needle," for millions of diabetes victims throughout the world. And the discovery of the new drug has also served to re-emphasize the need for early detection of this mysterious metabolic disorder.

Typical symptoms of diabetes, according to medical specialists, are:

1. Excessive thirst and hunger
2. Passing of large amount of urine
3. Loss of weight
4. Changes in vision
5. Fatigue and drowsiness
6. Positive urine sugar and elevated blood sugar

The most certain way to check on diabetic symptoms, is to see your physician.
